

The Parish Party

Churches

This was held in the Academy Hall and was the great social event of the summer.

Many young people connected with Duxbury families came from out of town.

It was the time of hoop-skirts and tarleton dresses with yards and yards of material in them.

The skirts of two Duxbury young ladies were so voluminous that they couldn't ride in a carriage without crushing their skirts, so they were carried to one party (standing) in a truck-wagon!

At 12 o'clock, ^{Rev.} Mr. Froom came up the stairway with his lighted lantern hanging on his arm and walked around the hall. That meant "Time to Stop dancing".

An attempt - rather unsuccessful - was made in 1882 to revive the parties. It was a great moment in the evening when Carrie Webster (Grand daughter of Daniel Webster) and George and ~~Adrian~~ Adrian Phillips (brother of Adelaide) came in. They always came.

See Mrs. Wilkinson's Paper on Duxbury

THE PARISH PARTY

This was held in the Academy House and was the great social event of the summer. Many young people connected with Duxbury families came from out of town.

It was the time of hoop skirts and tarleton dresses with yards with yards and yards of material in theirs (sp).

The skirts of two Duxbury young ladies were so voluminous that they couldn't ride in a carriage without crushing those skirts! So they were carried to one party (standing) in a truck-wagon!

At 12 o'clock, Rev. Jos. Moore came up the stairway with his lighted lantern hanging on his arm and walked around the hall. That meant "time to stop dancing."

An attempt – rather unsuccessful – was made in 1882 to revive the parties. It was a great moment in the evening when Carrie Webster (granddaughter of Daniel Webster) and George and Adrian Phillips (brothers of Adelaide) came in. They always came.

See (Mrs.?) Wilkenson's paper on Duxbury.